DIN WELCOMES THE NEW YEAR

Midnight Signal for Demonstration to Bid Farewell to Old, and Welcome to New Year. Many Telephone Greetings.

No noisier welcome ever greeted a new year than that which announced the arrival of 1916. Long continued blowing of whistles, the ringing of church and college bells, the use of every noise-making device known to the small boy and his older brother, all were used to give the dying twelve-month a fitting send-off and the incoming year a hearty greeting.

Beginning five minutes before twelve o'clock, the whistle of an engine in the railroad yards at the west end of town gave the signal for the demonstration, and scarcely five seconds after its first blast it seemed as though Gettysburg had suddenly become a mighty manufacturing center, with every factory sounding its siren at the same moment. Above the din of the whistles could be heard the various bells of town ringing from their towers, and all of this kept up for many minutes after the midnight hour was officially passed.

Parties in various sections of town lent their assistance and young men and women armed with tambourines, tin pans, horns, and other noise-making devices assembled in front of homes to contribute their share to the din. In the north end of town the use of Roman candles added to the celebration, and Gettysburg surely did bring in the new year in great shape.

The wishing of "Happy New Year" was heard at the stroke of twelve and not a few there were who called friends by telephone at the midnight hour to extend the time honored, but none the less sincere greeting.

To-day there are many New Year's dinners being held in town homes. While Christmas is usually a day just for the immediate family, the day which marks the opening of another year is more for the entertainment of guests and many of the hospitable homes of town were the scenes of happy parties to-day, or will be for evening dinners after six o'clock.

All in all the town was thoroughly awake to the occasion and Miss 1916 may feel that she has arrived among friends.

HUNDREDS OF TREES RUINED

Woodlands of Western Part of the County See Mighty Monsters of the Forest Crushed beneath Weight of Ice.

The rain and sleet which fell in this section several days ago, followed thereafter by a severe wind has done thousands of dollars in damage to timber in the western part of the county, in the Pen Mar section, and at the foot of the Blue Ridge mountains.

The ice has frozen on the tops and branches of the trees to a thickness of three quarters of an inch, making the mantle that covers the trees so weighty that the branches are crashing under the weight. In a number of instances trees have been broken off, while others have been borne to the ground and the roots are pulled out of the earth.

Thousands of chestnut, oak and pine trees have been broken off.

At Pen Mar a large pine tree in the yard of the cottage belonging to John R. Lashley, was blown down by the high wind, and in its fall it struck the corner of the porch of the cottage and this was reduced to kindling wood.

Considerable damage was also done to the large trees in the yard of the cottage at Pen Mar belonging to the Misses Hoover. No less than six pines that have withstood the elements for many years were blown down—two or three of which barely missed crashing into the roof of the building.

Around the home of William Hahn, near the Blue Mountain House that was destroyed by fire almost three years ago, a dozen giant pines of the forest were torn up by the roots and were thrown into a tangled mass.

Throughout the Blue Ridge Summit section considerable damage was done by both the sleet and wind. While some of the trees were blown down by the storm the heavy ice has broken off others or stripped them of their branches.

CUT OUT NIGHT SHOW AT FAIR

Weather too Uncertain to Warrant Evening Attraction being Continued. Expect Former Managers to be Re-Elected.

Night fairs as a part of the annual exhibitions of the York County Agricultural society are to be discontinued. This action was reached at a recent meeting of the managers of the society. The society held its first night fair in October, 1914. It was an innovation and was moderately successful.

The society's gates were again open at night and special attractions of a costly nature were provided during the annual exhibition last October, but raw winds and rain interfered with the complete success of the fair at night. The managers of the society have found that the weather is too uncertain at the period of the year fixed for the annual fairs to promote the success of night exhibitions. It was therefore decided to abandon the project for the future.

The annual meeting of the society will be held Monday, when a president and four managers are to be elected. John H. Wogan, president of the society, is a candidate for re-election and he will not be opposed. David F. Stauffer, D. G. Deardorff, Joseph Anderson and Herbert D. Smyser are candidates for re-election as managers of the society. They will not have opposition. B. H. Laucks, treasurer, will submit the financial report for the sixty second year of the society. This report will show that $10,821.68 was the amount cleared on the society's sixty second annual exhibition held during the first full week of last October.

The Hanover fair, coming several weeks earlier, may continue to have the night sessions.

WILL MAKE GOOD

Young York Springs Tesser to Go with Athletics.

Under the caption of "Looking Them Over" the Philadelphia Inquirer has to say in reference to a York Springs ball player—Jim Myers—who has been signed by Connie Mack, of the Athletic team, of that city.

Connie Mack has decided that his son, Earl, is a pretty good judge of a base ball player. That is the reason a pitcher by the name of Myers will start South with the Athletics this spring. Connie believes Myers is going to be a great pitcher. His son, Earl, is positive of that fact. On the closing day of the season Myers was given his first real chance to show his worth. All the young man did that afternoon against the Nationals was to allow Griffith's fast going team two hits, both of them singles. In addition to the scarcity of hits permitted, he caused twelve of the Washingtonians to go out on strikes.

"If I had only paid some attention to that son of mine," said Connie, "I would have Shore on my club now, also another mighty fine young pitcher by the name of Meadows, who has done so well for St. Louis Cardinals. These two pitchers got their start in the North Carolina League, in which Earl has managed the Raleigh club for several years. He tipped me off to both these pitchers several years ago, before either had received any consideration from the big league scouts."

BRAKEMAN SUICIDES

Western Maryland Employee Takes his Life with Gas.

Isaac M. Younker, 23 years old, a Western Maryland brakeman, committed suicide at his boarding-house in Hagerstown Friday morning by inhaling illuminating gas. The young man came in from his run at three o'clock and was called for breakfast at seven o'clock, and said "All right." At eight o'clock a young woman at the house went to call him again and detected the odor of gas. Opening the door, she found the young man dying. He died before physicians arrived.

CLAIM THIS MAN WAS DISHONEST

Arrest, it is Believed, will Bring End to Frauds in Carroll County and Other Nearby Places. Charges Named.

With the arrest of Harry Cohen, a Baltimore Russian Jew, officers of Frederick and Carroll counties feel that they have solved at least some of the frauds which have been occurring in both counties. Cohen is now in the Frederick county jail, pending settlement for $12 worth of butter sent to Baltimore by Otis Gray, who swore out the warrant resulting in the arrest of Cohen.

Cohen was placed under arrest in Baltimore by Detective E. J. Dunn, on a warrant sent down by Constable Raymond Frizzell. It was learned in Baltimore that Ezra Davis, of Carroll county, reports he is the victim of fraudulent checks sent as payment for farm produce consigned to an alleged Baltimore commission merchant.

Gray was at one time the proprietor and operator of a creamery in Monrovia. Some time ago arrangements were made whereby Gray agreed to ship butter to Cohen, acting for an alleged firm known as the Farmers' Company, Baltimore. An investigation by Constable Frizzell shows that no such company existed.

Thursday Constable Frizzell went to Baltimore and took Cohen to New Market for a hearing before Magistrate C. E. Taylor. Gray declared that if he was paid the $12 due him for butter and produce sent, he would drop the case. Friends of Cohen are now gathering funds to balance the account.

Cohen admitted that he had not paid Gray for the butter. But he further declared that he "meant to." "I sometimes forgot to put the money in bank."

It is not known that the Carroll county charges will be chalked up against him.

AUSTRIA GRANTS U. S. DEMANDS

Punishes Officer Who Sank the Ancona.

OFFERS INDEMNITY FOR LIVES

Vienna Gives Pledge to U. S. That Submarines Will Safeguard Passengers Unless Ships Flee.

London, Jan. 1.—The Austrian reply to the second American note on the sinking of the passenger ship Ancona, with the loss of American lives, states that the commander of the Austrian submarine has been punished for not sufficiently taking account of the panic aboard the Ancona, which rendered disembarkation more difficult.

The reply is forwarded to Reuter's Telegram company from Vienna by way of Amsterdam. It says:

"In reply to the second American Ancona note, the Austro-Hungarian government fully agrees with the Washington cabinet that the sacred laws on humanity should be taken into account also in war, and emphasizes that it, in the course of this war, has given numerous proofs of the most humane feelings.

"The Austro-Hungarian government, too, can positively concur in the principle that enemy private vessels, so far as they do not fly or offer resistance, shall not be destroyed before the persons aboard are secured.

"The assurance that the United States government attaches value to the maintenance of the existing good relations between Austria-Hungary and the United States is warmly reciprocated by the Austro-Hungarian government, which now, as heretofore, is anxious to render these relations still more cordial."

The Austro-Hungarian government then communicates the results of the inquiry into the sinking of the Ancona, which recently was concluded.

The inquiry showed that the commander of the submarine from a great distance, in the first instance, fired a warning shot on the steamship, sighted at 11:40 o'clock in the forenoon, which he at first believed to be a transport ship, at the same time giving a signal for the vessel to stop. As the steamship tried to escape, the submarine gave chase and fired sixteen shells at her, of which three were observed to hit. The Ancona stopped only after the third hit, whereupon the commander ceased firing.

Already during the flight, it is declared when at full speed the steamship dropped several boats filled with persons, which at once capsized. After the ship stopped, the commander of the submarine observed that six boats were fully manned and they speedily rowed away from the liner.

Approaching nearer, the commander of the submarine saw that a panic prevailed aboard the vessel and that he had before him the Ancona, as a result of which he gave those aboard more time than was necessary to leave the vessel in lifeboats.

At least ten lifeboats were still aboard, which would have more than sufficed to rescue the persons still in the vessel, but as no other preparations were made to hoist out the boats the commander decided after forty-five minutes to torpedo the vessel in such a manner that it ought to remain afloat a still longer time, in order to leave sufficient opportunity for the persons still aboard to be rescued.

Shortly afterwards, a ship became visible, which steamed toward the submarine. As the commander of the submarine, who believed the vessel to be an enemy cruiser, had to reckon with an attack, he submerged at 12:35 o'clock, firing a torpedo into the foremost cargo hold of the Ancona. No more boats aboard the vessel were lowered, although persons were still visible aboard.

The steamship sank so slowly that the submarine commander at first doubted whether she would sink. Only at 1:20 o'clock did it go down, bow first.

During these further forty-five minutes, it is averred, all the persons aboard easily could have been saved with the available boats. Since this did not occur, the commander concluded that the crew, contrary to the rules of the sea, accomplished their own rescue in the first boats, and left the passengers to themselves.

The note expresses a hope that Washington will be able to supply the particulars of how the American citizens were affected, but in the event of such evidence being lacking and the United States being unable to describe how the American citizens came to their death, the Austro-Hungarian government "is ready to pass lightly over this deficiency, and indemnify for damages, whose proximate cause cannot be fixed and hopes thereby that the incident will be regarded as ended."

The note adds, however, that the government cannot admit responsibility for damage caused by the justifiable firing on the fleeing vessel, or by the capsizing of the boats before the torpedo was fired.

BRITISH CRUISER SUNK BY EXPLOSION

The Natal Wrecked and Over 300 of Crew Perish.

London, Jan. 1.—The British armored cruiser Natal was sunk while in harbor as the result of an internal explosion. There are about 400 survivors.

The admiralty has given no indication as to the place of the Natal disaster. The loss is generally attributed to foul play. Attention is called to the disasters which overtook the British battleship Bulwark, which was blown up off Sheerness, in November, 1914, with the loss of 700 men, and the Princess Irene, blown up in Sheerness harbor last May, with a loss of between 300 and 400 lives.

The Natal's sinking is the severest loss the British navy has sustained in several months. No British naval vessels of importance had been sunk since last May, when the Triumph and Majestic were torpedoed at the Dardanelles. The Natal, although a powerful man-of-war, was laid down eleven years ago, and her displacement was only about one-half of the largest British sea fighters.

FRENCH SUBMARINE SUNK

Monge Sent to Bottom by Austrian Flotilla, Berlin Says.

Berlin, Jan. 1.—An official Austrian report received here from Vienna, says the French submarine Monge was sunk, Wednesday, in the Adriatic, off Durazzo, Albania, by an Austrian flotilla. An official statement says: "An Austro-Hungarian flotilla consisting of five destroyers and the cruiser Helgoland, on the morning of December 29, destroyed the French submarine Monge. The French submarine was lowered, and fifteen sailors were taken prisoners."

RUSSIAN DRIVE MAY WIN RUMANIA

Offered Bukowina and Transylvania For Aiding Allies.

TEUTONS LEAVE MACEDONIA

Muscovites Strive to Relieve Balkan Pressure by Offensive in Bessarabia.

London, Jan. 1.—While Vienna reports that the battles in Galicia and Bukowina, along the Bessarabian frontier, are increasing in extent and violence, Russia maintains a mysterious reticence regarding her military operations there.

It seems certain, however, that extremely important events, the full significance of which are not yet officially disclosed, are occurring at the only point where Russian armies can bring any pressure to bear on the Balkan situation without actually crossing Rumanian territory.

Many reports have reached London that the Austro-German and Bulgarian forces are not only abandoning all preparations for an advance in Macedonia, but are actually withdrawing troops from this front, their action being attributed to the Russian offensive in Bessarabia, but most of these despatches bear the impression of the wish being father to the thought.

Telegraphing from Petrograd, the correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette says:

"Russian joint operations with Rumania are on the point of beginning. Rumania will fight with us, although not for us. Her siding with the entente is not the result of French or English sympathies, but an endeavor to realize the Rumanian dream of sovereignty over Bukowina and Transylvania. As preparation for Rumania's entry into the war, Russia's aim is to conquer Bukowina for the benefit of her new ally. This task can be accomplished in a few weeks.

"The Rumanians will then fortify the new province and march with the Russians through Bulgaria and Transylvania, while simultaneously the Italians, French, British and Serbians will deal blows on other fronts."

An Amsterdam despatch says the Russians have concentrated 200 guns and three divisions of troops (35,000 men) in a front of three miles on the Bessarabian frontier. Twenty-two desperate assaults were made in succession against the Austrian positions.

In the entente capitals there is a general opinion that the Russian campaign, which has been undertaken in the face of unfavorable weather conditions, is likely to have an important bearing on the whole war situation.

Official Austrian reports, telling of attacks of dense masses of Russian troops, indicate that an important battle is already under way.

Charleston, W. Va., Jan. 1.—Twenty-five thousand pints of whiskey, brandy and rum confiscated by the state prohibition department were emptied in a sewer here.

Four men worked three hours in relays in order to prevent them being overcome by the fumes.

The department has a report from a deputy in a town on the Kentucky border, telling of the arrest of ten alleged bootleggers, each of whom wore from four to six pairs of trousers and two coats with many small bottles of whiskey in the pockets.

Actor Sticks Pins in Eyes.

Jacksonville, Fla., Jan. 1.—F. P. Dense, former Kalem movie actor, pierced both his eyes with a pin to make himself blind. He is confined in the county jail for the alleged shooting of his wife three weeks ago. The bullet blinded her. Dense declared he wished to put himself in the same condition.

SEVEN MORE STATES DRY

At Least 3000 Saloons Go Out of Business.

New York, Jan. 1.—Seven more states took their place in the prohibition column when the New Year came on, swelling the total to eighteen.

They are Arkansas, Washington, Idaho, Colorado, South Carolina and Oregon. At least 3000 saloons went out of business.

The eleven states previously dry are: Maine, Kansas, Tennessee, Mississippi, Arizona, North Carolina, West Virginia, Georgia, North Dakota, Oklahoma and Alabama.

Virginia will become dry November 1.

About five million persons will come under statewide prohibition laws, it has been reckoned that $100,000,000 capital invested in the liquor industry will disappear so far as its previous use is concerned, although it will not be a total loss.

Four states—New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Nevada and Montana are "wet" virtually throughout. This leaves twenty-five local option states, most of which have rural prohibition and license cities.

In the six states—Vermont, Michigan, South Dakota, Nebraska, Montana and California—will put the question of ousting demon rum before the voters. Florida will also probably ballot on prohibition. Most of the southern states are now in the no-drink class.

TEMPLE IRON CO. IS HISTORY NOW

Deeds of Properties Transfer Recorded.

Reading, Pa., Jan. 1.—The reported sale of the properties of the Temple Iron company, popularly known as the Coal Trust, of which the late George F. Baer, president of the Reading Railway company, was one of the heads, and which was ordered by the United States supreme court half a dozen years ago to dispose of its antitrust property, was verified, when the deeds of transfer were recorded at the court house.

From the deeds, it is apparent that Henry H. Adams, of Greenwich, Conn., makes $130,000 by the transaction, as he purchased all of the properties from the Temple company for $140,000 and immediately transfers the furnace plant and a twenty-acre slag bank to George A. Coulton, of Cuyahoga, Ohio, for $250,000; the 105-acre tract containing a mansion house, to Albert Broden, the new superintendent of the furnace, for $5000, and two tracts of land, on which a number of company tenant houses are erected, to Frederick L. Richmond, of New York, for $15,000.

6 MISSING IN CHICAGO FIRE

Explosion Destroys Plant of American Linseed Oil Company.

Chicago, Jan. 1.—Six workmen missing and property damage estimated at $500,000 are results of a fire which followed an explosion in the plant of the American Linseed Oil company in South Chicago.

The plant was virtually destroyed. A number of firemen and employees of the company were injured.

The explosion was attributed to spontaneous combustion of linseed dust.

The plant consisted of four four-story brick buildings. The flames demolished the interior of all, leaving only the walls standing. The first explosion blew off the roof of one building. Smaller explosions followed as the flames reached different tanks. An oil barge in the Calumet slip, beside the plant, caught fire. The surface of the river was coated with flaming oil.

Man Meets Peculiar Death.

Philadelphia, Jan. 1.—James Feeders, forty years old, went into the drying room of the brick yard of Charles A. Young, Twenty-fourth and McKean streets, supposedly to take a nap. He was found dead by a watchman. It was thought that the combination of steam and brick dust in the place suffocated the man.

Coal Companies Merge.

Harrisburg, Jan. 1.—The Herwind White Coal company and the White Coal company have consolidated with a capital of $200,000, according to papers filed with the secretary of the commonwealth.

Region of Greatest Snowfall.

A total snowfall of 783 inches has been recorded in a single winter at Summit, Cal., while as much as 307 inches has been on the ground at one time at the same station. As this snow furnishes most of the water used in irrigation, hydraulic mining and other phases of engineering, the question of snow depth is of much importance in forecasting the amount of water available for such purposes.—United States Department Circular.

$1,000,000 GIVEN TO AID THE JEWS

Great Fund Raised at Meeting
Held in New York.

$100,000 EACH FROM FOUR

Women Tear Jewels From Their Fingers and Ears While Others Give Their Costly Furs—Huge Audience Moved to Tears by Touching Pleas of Speaker.

One of the most intensely dramatic scenes ever enacted in New York occurred at a meeting of the American Jewish relief committee at Carnegie hall.

Within the short space of half an hour the sum of about $1,000,000 was collected to alleviate the suffering of war-stricken Jews. Hysterical women and weeping men, after contributing their last cent, threw their jewelry on the stage.

Four anonymous donations of $100,000 each were announced from among the audience. Two others of $50,000 were announced and scores of lesser donations poured in.

Four huge piles of envelopes filled with checks and bills occupied the front of the stage. There were two large wicker baskets filled to the top with rings, watches, fobs and other jewelry.

Four Give $100,000 Each.

The Guggenheim family, Jacob H. Schiff, Nathan Straus and Julius Rosenwald, it was rumored among the audience, gave the four checks for $100,000 each. The donors were announced simply as anonymous from the stage.

The remarkable contribution came after an appeal made by Dr. J. L. Magnes. He is connected with the treasurer's office of the relief committee. He spoke for half an hour. There were 3,500 persons in the hall. Another 3,000 clamored for admission on the outside.

Pictures Sufferings of Jews.

Dr. Magnes drew a vivid picture of the suffering among the Jews in the war theaters of Europe. With remarkable feeling and sympathy he transported the audience to another land—until every person actually visualized the terrible specter which follows in the wake of the war god.

Women began to sob. Men stood up and cried out in anguish. For a time the noise of weeping was so loud that the voice of the speaker was drowned. And then, in eloquent words, Dr. Magnes told of the wonderful charity which similar appeals had brought forth in other cities. There was a catch in his voice as he asked his audience to come forth and show similar spirit.

Before the ushers could pass up the tables with baskets men, women and children surged toward the stage. Some dropped on their knees facing the huge rostrum.

Richly clad women knelt shoulder to shoulder with pushcart peddlers. Caste and distinction were forgotten. The stoutest hearts were moved.

Men fought to reach the stage so that they could empty their pockets. Yellow backed currency, silver and copper money covered the stage within a few minutes to the depth of three inches.

And amid it all Dr. Magnes continued his appeal. He did not lose the grip which he had on his audience for one second. He worked them up into a veritable frenzy.

Woman Gives Lavalliere.

A woman staggered toward the stage. Her hair had fallen over her shoulders, and tears were coursing down her cheeks.

She wore a Fifth avenue modiste's gown and expensive furs. But she was practically unnoticed in the dramatic scene which was being enacted. Pushing aside women who were on her knees, she tore a diamond lavalliere from her neck and passed it to Dr. Magnes.

Other women threw their furs on the stage. Still others tore their rings from their fingers and their jewels from their ears.

Ill clad working girls gave up trinkets which probably represented weeks of saving. And even then they cried because they could not give more.

One man pushed his way through the mob and passed up a coin to one of the men on the stage. Dr. Magnes later announced that this man had given him 10 cents. This, he said, represented his car fare—all the money he had.

Still another man—dirty and bedraggled—passed up what was later said to be a five ruble note. He had just come from a province of Kovno.

Five weeks ago he witnessed indescribable massacres among the Jews. The printing on the five ruble note he passed up was almost obliterated with blood. He escaped from the massacre unscathed.

After announcing the four donations Dr. Magnes said that one of $15,000 had just been received from Brith Abraham, through Judge Leon Sanders. Then came one of $10,000 from Jacob Wertheim. These donations were followed in rapid succession by two of $10,000 each, from Samuel Untermyer and Louis Marshall.

Justice Irving Lehman gave $5,000, and $10,000 each was received from John Simon, Mr. and Mrs. Israel Unterberg and Louis L. Fruski.

COUPLE PLAY ADAM AND EVE

Estes and Wife Start in Bathing Suits and Return Clad in Skins.

After living in the Maine woods near Bingham as "Adam and Eve" for two months Walter F. Estes and his wife, Gray, Me., have returned to Boston. They emerged from the woods Dec. 1 having begun their primitive life Oct. 1 clad only in bathing suits.

Although they had no weapons of any kind when they entered the woods they succeeded in obtaining their own food, started fires by rubbing sticks together and constructed their own shelters after the weather became too cold to sleep in the caves.

Their bathing costumes were soon replaced with suits made from the skins of snared animals, which they wore on their return to civilization.

HORSE MEAT FOOD IN NEW YORK CITY

Board of Health Removes Prohibition Against Sale.

RELATIVE VALUE IS SHOWN

"Ban Not Based on Sound and Scientific Lines," Says Commission—Declares Horseflesh Brings Higher Price Than Beef in Brussels—Doctors Approve.

The sale of horse meat as a commodity will be legal in Greater New York after Jan. 1. As a necessary of life the horse will be placed upon the same footing with cows, sheep and poultry.

This sweeping action was taken by the board of health. The city thus becomes the first in the country, so far as known, in which the legal restriction against horseflesh has been removed.

"Prohibition of the sale of horse meat or the slaughter of horses for food is not based on sound or scientific grounds," declared Health Commissioner Haven Emerson. "Laws of this nature have outlived their usefulness. We are living in a different age. Conditions have to be judged accordingly."

Dr. Emerson expressed the unanimous sentiment of the board of health. He declared that in nearly every country in Europe the sale of horseflesh for food purposes has been legalized.

Relative Value Shown.

"The relative value of horse meat abroad is shown by the experience of our veterinarian, Dr. Ackerman, who found in Brussels that horseflesh was bringing higher prices than Argentine beef," he said.

The board of health will limit the sale of horse meat to certified premises.

"If there is any demand for horse meat certain slaughter houses will specialize in it the same as is now done with cattle and sheep," said Dr. Emerson.

"Will your action have any effect upon a general reduction in the present prices of meat?" he was asked. "This is a remote possibility," he answered. "However, people who are unable to pay present prices will be furnished with an inexpensive and thoroughly clean meat."

"In adopting this resolution the board of health wished to open the way for an inexpensive and healthy food supply that could be obtained over here as well as in Europe. Instead of being sold for their bones, which bring little or nothing, old horses will hereafter be fattened and disposed of for meat."

"While the health department does not exactly recommend the eating of horse meat, we can see no harm in its use. The horse never has tuberculosis. It practically never communicates a malignant disease to human beings. Consequently the strict regulation of horse meat would not be necessary, as in the case of cows, sheep, poultry and other animals."

"There is no medical or sanitary reason to prevent equine flesh from being edible. With our present method of control it will prove one of the safest meats obtainable. We will take special care to prevent its being sold as veal or beef. If horse slaughter houses are established they will receive the same careful inspection as others."

"Horse meat should be very desirable as a food," said Dr. D. R. Ayres. "There has been no reason offered to prevent its being placed on sale. I for one believe the action of the board of health will solve a great problem which for many years has confronted the poorer classes."

NEW HARD COAL RATES PUT OFF

Reduction is Postponed Until April 1.

WAS TO BE EFFECTIVE TODAY

Commerce Commission Wants to Give Companies Time to Work Out New Rate Schedules.

Washington, Jan. 1.—Reductions in rates on anthracite from the Pennsylvania fields to the Atlantic seaboard were again postponed by the interstate commerce commission.

They will become effective April 1 instead of today. They were originally ordered for October 1 and have been twice extended.

The commission wants to give the coal roads time to work out the new rate schedules they have been ordered to make.

The commission declined to suspend schedules of the Pennsylvania, New York Central and other trunk line railroads which provide for a reduction from thirty to fifteen days in the allowance of time on export freight.

This means that the commission has approved the free time allowance reduction beginning January 1. It may improve congested freight conditions at the port of New York. The reductions apply to freight shipped to Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Norfolk and Newport News.

Reduction of the time export freight will be permitted to remain in storage at railroad export terminals without charge was opposed by shippers and merchants of New York and adjacent territory.

Proposed increased rates on grain and grain products from Indiana, Illinois and other middle western states and from certain points in Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri and Kentucky to Atlantic ports for export were found not justified by the commission. The increases ranged from a half cent to two cents a hundred pounds.

Rate increases ranging from two to five cents a hundred pounds, from Louisiana and Arkansas to Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York, Boston and other eastern points, were found justified.

Increases of 2.55 cents a hundred pounds on lumber, in carloads, from Points in Missouri and Arkansas to Milwaukee and points immediately south, also were found justified.

New classifications of freight on the southeastern railroads, which will result in increased freight charges, effective January 1, were allowed, by the interstate commerce commission.

The southeastern lines serve the territory in the Atlantic and Gulf states, south of the Ohio and Potomac and east of the Mississippi rivers.

In allowing the new classifications the commission specifically stated that it did not place its approval on the increases, and would entertain any formal complaint, which may be made against the reasonableness of the new charges.

SEES ATTACK ON U. S. WHEN WAR IS OVER

Pan-American Military Alliance
For Defence is Urged.

Washington, Jan. 1.—The United States will be blamed by the losers in the European war, and the victorious nations will say they won in spite of the United States, John Barrett, director of the Pan-American Union, said before the educational section of the Pan-American Scientific congress.

All America must be prepared to resist effort at territorial aggrandizement by European nations in this hemisphere, when the present war is settled, he said, and must prevent a solid front to prevent violations of the Monroe doctrine. If a foreign foe were to destroy the integrity of the United States, he argued, it would be only a question of time when that foe also would destroy the sovereignty of every other American republic. If any foreign foe should extend its dominion over a considerable part of Latin-America, and the nations of Latin-America become dependencies, on the other hand it would follow that the United States would meet the same fate. Because no foreign foe could achieve such a result except by victory over the United States.

Mr. Barrett called upon the congress to give inspiration in the absence of legislative powers, for the evolution of the Monroe doctrine "into a Pan-American doctrine which will mean that the Latin-American republics, if the United States were attacked by a foreign foe, with all their physical and moral force would stand for the protection and sovereignty of the United States as quickly as the United States, under corresponding circumstances, would stand for their sovereignty and integrity."

Rio de Janeiro was selected for the twentieth international congress of Americanists in 1918.

GLASS PRICES JUMP

American Company Adds 15 Per Cent to Window Glass.

Pittsburgh, Jan. 1.—The American Window Glass company announced a new price card, effective today, for all domestic and export business.

It carries an advance of from 12 1/2 per cent to 15 per cent on the various sizes and is made to apply to all grades of window glass.

Increased demand because of improved building operations and the withdrawal of the Belgian factories from the international field has created an unprecedented condition in the domestic factories.

The snowfall measured fifty-two inches on the level at the end of forty-eight hours. Weather forecasts predict a continuation of the storm for another twenty-four hours.

Oiling the Engine.

The commonest error on the part of many engine users is in neglecting lubrication of small parts. Most of them will make sure that the motor is given its regular quota of oil and that the transmission and rear axle are properly filled, but the lubrication of such things as fan, front wheel, steering connections, spring link and various lever bearings is entirely left sight of. Manufacturers place attractive brass oil and grease cups at all important points of the car where it is practicable to do so in the hope that they will be noticed and used, but in too many instances the result is not attained. Not only is lubrication neglected, but a cheap oil is used merely to save a few cents per gallon. This failing often results in repairs of a very expensive nature. — Blacksmith and Wheelwright.

BURIED BY LANTERN LIGHT.

Funeral Cortege Travels Only Ten Miles in Two Days.

By the light of lanterns the body of Annie M. Scott of Phoenixville, Pa., was interred at Grove Methodist Episcopal cemetery, West Whiteland, after a trip of ten miles, which had consumed two days.

By night the procession had reached Kimberton, five miles from the starting point, where the trip was abandoned and resumed in the morning, but it required until late the second evening to reach the cemetery, the road leading for the main part through fields because heavy snowdrifts closed the highways.

The Elopers' Curious Pursuer

By JOHN Y. LARNED

"I hear, Jim, that when you got married you ran away with the gal."
"So I did."
"Big chase?"
"You bet!"
"Gal's old man after you?"
"No."
"Brother?"
"No."
"Mother?"
"No."
"Another feller?"
"No."
"It wasn't a bar, was it?"
"No; it wasn't any kind of a man or beast—nothin' livin'."
"What was it, then, if it wasn't alive? Couldn't nothin' dead git after you. Did it ketch you?"
"It come pretty nigh ketchin' us."
"Two legs or four?"
"No legs at all; it rolled."
"You must 'a' been runnin' down hill."
"No; we was runnin' on pretty nigh a dead level."
"Was you on foot or a-hossback?"
"Neither; in an automobile."
"I don't know nothin' that would roll after you except a seal."
"I told you it wasn't alive."
"Well, what was it?"
"Gimme a seegar and I'll tell you."
The curious man produced the cigar. Jim lighted up and told his story. That was the way he got his tobacco; he excited some man's curiosity, then gratified it for a small consideration in the shape of a weed.

"Mandy and I done our courtin' out in the Rocky mountains. Mandy was fond of ridin' hossback till she heard of what they called in them days bossless carriages, and as soon as they come to be common in the east she got her father to send for one for her. It didn't take her long to learn to run it, though she got spilled several times, and the machine had to be sent down to Denver for repairs once a week.

"Well, when I come courtin' Mandy her dad had jist struck a vein turnin' out $200 to the ton of ore, and it wasn't to be expected that he would look at a galoot that hadn't 200 cents to a ton of gall. Mandy didn't see it in that light. She argued that her dad would be rich and she could afford a poor husband. The ole man jist told her that the next time I come round I'd git the contents of his gun."

"There didn't seem to be nothin' to do but for me and Mandy to light out, and we did. The ole man was away at the time, and we didn't have nothin' to do but put our duds in the auto, git in ourselves and chug chug away. It was a hot day, with clouds lookin' like a man's coat that had passed through a mowin' machine. We was goin' down to a settlement in the foothills to git married, and, since it looked like rain, instead of takin' the longest road we tuk the shortest, that run through Devil's canyon."

"We was joggin' along in the canyon, takin' our time and thinkin' what a tame runaway match we was havin', when we hearn behind us what sounded like low thunder. Mandy 'lowed it was thunder, but somehow I didn't think it was. In a few minutes we'd made up our minds that it was a torrent comin' down the canyon. There'd been a cloudburst up in the mountains, and the flood was on the way in our direction."

"Mebbe we wasn't skeered! There was no outlet from the canyon till there was a break in its perpendicular side miles below where we was. The canyon wasn't an average of more'n twice as wide as the road, and when a good, healthy cloudburst come down the flood was from ten to forty feet high, accordin' to the width of the walls holdin' it in, and it come like an express train."

"Mebbe Mandy didn't put on all the power, and mebbe we didn't shoot along that canyon like a cannon ball! But we couldn't git on as fast as the flood, and we knew that if we didn't reach the break below before the water reached us we was goners. The trouble was we couldn't keep up fast time, the road was so crooked. It wasn't long before the head of the water was in sight. I looked back jist in time to see it strike one side of the cliff where there was a turn in the canyon. It was like the head of a tremendous sea serpent, flingin' out logs and stones, sometimes a whole tree, agin the rock, as much as to say: 'Git out of the way! Don't you see I'm tryin' to git them lovers ahead?'"

"It was the worst sight I ever see. I wouldn't let Mandy turn to look at it, for she had the wheel, and if she saw it she'd likely collapse. Every time there was a turn we had to slow up, and that the flood had to slow up, too, and in that way we gained on it, we turnin' faster than it. About a mile above the break we was runnin', for the canyon was pretty straight and we knewed it was nip and tuck with us."

"Down this mile we courted, the head of the flood hollerin' at us and throwin' logs at us to stop us, but we kept right on. When we had about a quarter of a mile to go to reach the break I began to calculate if we'd have time to climb the incline leadin' out of the canyon. I looked back, and it seemed that the devilish thing was right on to us."

"When we got to the break and the rise we had to slow up a bit for the turn. The flood passed us, but threw a tree at us, missin' us by about a yard. Then we was safe."

"I see," remarked the curious man. "You was chased by rollin' water. Have another seegar."

Facts Versus Fallacies

FACT is a real state of things. FALLACY is an apparently genuine but really illogical statement or argument.

IT HAS been a subject of wonder to many people why there has so suddenly developed within the past year a sort of epidemic of antagonism to the liquor interests, when prior to twelve months ago the comparatively few persons that proclaimed Prohibition FALLACIES were called fanatics on that subject.

POSSIBLY the anti-liquor epidemic of today may be explained as the climax of a long and persistent circulation of FALLACIES by certain persons employed for that purpose; or by others financially interested in the overthrow of the legalized and regulated sale of alcoholics; or by ambitious politicians who seek the plaudits of a Prohibition following to gain personal recognition and office.

THIS country has, for years, been swamped with prohibition literature. The liquor interests have been assailed (seldom temperately) and, until recently, have made little, if any, answer to attacks in which FALLACIES played the greater part. In many States laws have been in force to make it compulsory upon children to learn Prohibition doctrine in the public schools, so that when the young folk completed their studies they were under the FALLACIOUS impression that alcoholic drinks are poison.

ONLY a few weeks ago former President Taft in an address delivered at the Commencement Exercises of a college in Philadelphia, made the following significant statement of FACTS regarding certain text books used in our public schools:

"CRITICISM . . . might well be directed to many text books that seek to inculcate aversion to the use of intoxicating liquors. The unwise extremity to which legislators have gone in the requirement for such teaching has stimulated a class of books which dwell on the results of the use of intoxicating liquors in such an exaggerated way that pupils begin to understand that they are grotesque exaggerations, and therefore they become skeptical in respect to the whole matter."

MANY times, in the course of these articles, we will, in citing FACTS called attention to Prohibition FALLACIES. But it remained for ex-President Taft to more aptly and picturesquely term them "grotesque exaggerations."

DEATH TAKES YOUNG TEACHER

Tuberculosis Results Fatally to Man who Continued his Work until Last November. Other Deaths.

Clayton Eichelberger, for the past eight years a teacher in the public schools of Adams County, died at four o'clock Monday afternoon at the Mont Alto Sanatorium, from tuberculosis of the lungs. He was aged 29 years and 11 months.

Mr. Eichelberger was born in this county, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Eichelberger. The father died about five years ago and his mother died on November 12, the Friday preceding Institute week. On account of the funeral which was held the following Tuesday Mr. Eichelberger was not able to be present at Institute and during the week his condition from tuberculosis became so much worse that he was forced to give up his position as teacher at Gardners.

A little over three weeks ago he was taken to Mont Alto but the disease was too far advanced for a recovery to be effected and he sank gradually, death finally resulting Monday afternoon.

Mr. Eichelberger was a graduate of the Cumberland Valley State Normal School at Shippensburg and had taught for eight years in various schools of the county, occupying positions at Mountain View, Cranberry, Chestnut Hill, Wierman's Mill, and Gardners.

He leaves a brother, William Eichelberger, of Tyrone township, and a sister, Mrs. William Hayberger, of near Centre Mills.

The body was brought this afternoon to the home of his brother and the funeral will be held from there Friday morning, meeting at 9:30. Services and interment at Centre Mills United Brethren church.

For eight years they lived in Waynesboro, moving at the end of that time to the home of her daughter, where she died.

She leaves her husband and three daughters: Mrs. T. F. Eyler, near Monterey; Mrs. Howard V. Olinger, York, and Mrs. Ralph Cover, Waynesboro. She also leaves one brother, and one sister: Mrs. Salome Rupp, Steelton, and James O. Mickley, Virginia Mills.

Her husband died 37 years ago and since that time her home had been with her sister.

She leaves one brother and two sisters, Ephraim Miller, of Indiana; Mrs. Emory Graff, of Topeka, Kansas; and Mrs. Enoch Dewey, with whom she lived.

MISS EMMA C. FELTY

Miss Emma Caroline Felty, a native of Union township, died at her home in Hanover Saturday evening after an illness of several days from gripe and complications, aged 57 years, 2 months, and 23 days.

She was a daughter of John Henry and Sarah (Spangler) Felty, and she leaves two brothers and a sister, George W. Felty, Hanover; Harry Felty, New Oxford; Mrs. Abram Keagy, Littlestown.

MAIN WITNESSES
HAVE BEEN HEARD

And Neighbors of Men Concerned in Murder Trial are now Giving their Testimony. Sharrah Unpopular.

Examination of the main witnesses in the Sharrah trial is finished, at least for the time, and testimony was taken to-day from neighbors of both the murdered man, Deardorff, and Sharrah. While Sharrah seems to be about as popular as whooping cough with the countryside around his home, the testimony of the men called during the morning gave him credit for some virtues and mentioned nothing to his special discredit except his proclivity for drink.

Claude Sheads, brother-in-law to Mrs. Sharrah, was the first witness. He was interrogated concerning the occurrences on the night of September 11th. This was the time of the Old Home picnic at Buchanan Valley. Sheads, with his family, drove to Sharrah's that afternoon, had supper there and then Deardorff appeared in a buggy. Arrangement was previously made for Deardorff to bring from Cashtown a keg of beer ordered by Sharrah.

Sheds went with them in the buggy. On their return trip they all went to the picnic, and while on the way Sharrah began to talk to Deardorff about his attentions to Mrs. Sharrah saying: "People told me that, when I was harvesting, you stayed three nights at my house. I have heard lots of talk and I want you to stay away." During this talk, according to Sheads, Deardorff laughed and punched him in the ribs with his elbow but said nothing. Deardorff then replied, Sheads said, "I've got as good right there as you have; she says she likes me better than you, and I am going to come there."

After their arrival at the picnic, Sheads again heard Sharrah speak to Deardorff about the old trouble before a number of other men who had gathered about. Sheads met his family, who had come there in the Sheads

SEVEN CLOSED
AT MIDNIGHT

Liquor Dealers in Cumberland County Must Cease Business until Court Acts on License Applications.

Seven hotels in Cumberland County closed their doors at midnight Monday as the result of no action being taken by the Court on their petitions for licenses pending the preparation of an opinion covering the various cases.

Of twenty nine applications, twenty were granted, and nine, seven established, and two to re-open hotels, were held over. The licenses for last year expired at midnight, and until new ones are issued the places which were held up will keep closed.

In Carlisle, the wholesale places of John S. Low and C. P. Stambaugh, the St. Charles Hotel, conducted by T. J. Crowley, and the Franklin House, the oldest licensed house in the Cumberland Valley, of which C. J. Mahoney is proprietor, were held up, following remonstrances and argument presented to the Court Monday. Both hotels in Newville, the West Shore Hotel, Wormleysburg, Boiling Springs Hotel, and Doubling Gap Springs, a noted summer resort also were held under advisement.

Sentiment on the license question was higher this year than ever before monster petitions against license being filed. This was the first Court of Judge S. B. Sadler who succeeded his father on the bench. The new Judge announced that all licenses would be granted under the rules established by his father, believed to be among the most stringent in the State.

The rules provide for 10:30 closing, closing on holidays, no cabaret or lunch features in hotels.

NO WHITE PAPER

Newspapers are Printed on Tinted Sheets these Days.

During the Civil War many newspapers were published on wall paper. Although this is not likely to occur this year it is apparent that before long very little real white paper will be used. The paper mills are unable to purchase the necessary bleaching material which accounts for all newspapers now having a muddy and dirty appearance. Some of the large city papers are issuing several grades of paper in the same issue. It is only those who have stock on hand that are issuing now a clear sheet.

TO MAKE ADDRESS

Honor Conferred upon Graduate of Gettysburg College.

Chief Justice J. Hay Brown has accepted an invitation to deliver the address at the exercises in the Academy of Music, Philadelphia, on February 22, "University Day." It is the most important occasion of the entire year at the University of Pennsylvania and the honor conferred on Judge Brown has fallen to the lot of many men of national and international prominence. Judge Brown is a brother of Mrs. Cox, Baltimore street, and a graduate of Gettysburg College.

TO KILL SUNDAY
BASE BALL GAMES

Maryland Towns May Bring Close to Controversy through Disposition of Legal Action now Pending.

It is now a question whether there will be Sunday base ball after all in Cumberland or Frostburg, should these two towns be admitted to the Blue Ridge League.

Robert Reynolds, through W. Carl Edwards, attorney, has appealed to the higher court from the decision of Judge Henderson in the Sunday base ball case and the Court of Appeals will take up the matter about April 1. Mr. Reynolds sought by injunction to stop Sunday base ball in South Cumberland where the Cumberland team has its grounds, claiming that his property, which is in close proximity to the grounds, was made less desirable because of the alleged noises and rowdiness incident to Sunday games. He claimed both moral and physical injury.

The attorneys for the base ball club, Whiting & Eppler and George Henderson, demurred to the claim of moral injury on the ground that if Sunday base ball were a nuisance, as alleged, and a violation of the law, there was recourse to the criminal courts. Judge Henderson upheld the demurrer. The question of physical injury, which he declared was a matter of proof, was not taken up. Upon decision of the Court of Appeals in the matter, it is thought, will depend whether Sunday ball can be played.

While Frostburg would not come under this decision, should the Court of Appeals rule against it, it is believed that some of the citizens in that town that are against Sunday base ball would attempt the same thing.

Martinsburg, it is said, has decided now to cast its vote against the admission of Frostburg to the league and will vote for Piedmont, instead.

It is given out from Piedmont that over $3,000 has been collected in that city and the finance committee in Frostburg is equally emphatic about its success.

Chairman Thompson, of the players' committee, of the Martinsburg club, says that he has received a letter from a woman player in Baltimore, asking for a try-out on the West Virginia nine. Mrs. Wesley Seipp, of Baltimore, stated that she practiced with the Terrapins last year but was a little too light for the big show.

ASKS WITCHES TO VISIT CURSE

Does Nearby Squire after Dismissing Case Arising out of Evil Spell Superstition. Bad Spirits.

Several days ago The Times told of a store clerk, over in Frederick County, who was charged with threatening to kill Mrs. Jennie Staub because he blamed her with having caused the illness of his seven weeks old baby. The case was taken before a justice and dismissed after the defendant, Virgil Eaton, had provided for costs amounting to $14.00.

From the testimony of several prominent farmers, it developed that the week's churning of butter was usually the occasion for the application of an elaborate series of charms. In the event the cream does not turn into butter, the housewife walks about the churn, scattering a fine layer of salt. This ceremony is repeated three times.

Then if there are not visible results a stove-poker is heated white hot, and prodded into the cream until the desired result is obtained.

The audience was horrified at the conclusion of the hearing, when Justice Miller asked all the witches in the room to "hex" him. He has noticed no "spells" up to this time.

RAILROAD FREED

But Township Authorities Censured for Bad Condition of Roads.

A coroner's jury has freed the Reading Railroad Company from all blame for the fatal accident at Grantham last Saturday in which three women lost their lives when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a milk train.

The Harrisburg Telegraph draws this lesson from the accident: "The automobile accident at Grantham Saturday, as the result of which three persons were killed and two injured, would not have occurred but for the fact that the road near the crossing was almost impassably muddy. What a frightful price to pay for a bad road! Yet this is only a striking example of the folly and loss due to failure of township authorities to keep the highways in first class condition. The additional cost is as nothing compared to the inconvenience, wear and tear on vehicles and horse-flesh and loss of time which the farmer suffers every winter as a result of being compelled to plough knee deep through water and mud-submerged roads."

Words Change Meaning.

Our great-granddads often referred to their overcoats as "bangups." This word has a different meaning now, just as "slump" was used at Harvard 70 years ago to denote a flunk by a student. Now it is commonly employed to denote a big recession in the price of stocks.

Possibly True.

"Jinks is an awful liar. He says he's never spoken a cross word to his wife in the whole ten years they've been married." "That doesn't prove him a liar. Evidently you've never met his wife or you'd know that it would take a brave man to speak a cross word to her."

WILL KEEP OUT OF WAR, WILSON

Gives Pledge in Milwaukee While Thousands Cheer.

FAITH IN GERMAN-AMERICANS

President Tells Hearers "Trouble Makers Have Shot Their Bolt" and That America First is Nation's Thought.

Milwaukee, Feb. 1.—Before a crowd that completely filled the Auditorium building, and which repeatedly joined in enthusiastic cheers, President Wilson brought to this city his message on the needs of the nation for preparedness.

Fear had been expressed that the president's reception might lack in warmth. Milwaukee is one of the principal German-American communities of the Union, and at times feeling against the president, growing out of his official acts, has been strongly expressed.

But in no city which he has visited since he began his speaking tour to win the middle west to his defence plans has the president faced such large crowds or assemblages which seemingly were more heartily in accord with the message he had to offer them.

"I want at the outset to remove any apprehension in your minds," said the president. "There is no crisis; nothing new has happened. I came to confer with you on a matter which we should confer on in any event. We should see that our house is set in order. When all the world is on fire the sparks fly everywhere.

"At the outset of the war it did look as if there were a division of domestic sentiment which might lead us into some errors of judgment. I for one believe that danger is past. (The crowd applauded here.)

"I never doubted the danger was exaggerated. I for my part always feel a serene confidence in waiting for a declaration of the principles and sentiments of the men who are not vociferous, who do their own thinking and attend to their own business and leave everything else alone. I have not supposed that the men whose voices seemed to show a threat against us represented even the people they claimed to represent.

"I know the magic of America. I know the impulses which draw men to our shores. I know that they come to be free. I know that when the test comes, every man's heart will be first for America.

"The trouble makers have shot their bolt. They have been loud, but ineffectual. Their talk costs nothing. You know that I must remember my responsibilities."

America, the president said, was attending to her own affairs in the world where everyone else was absorbed in war.

"There is daily, hourly danger," he continued, "that they will feel constrained to do things which are also utterly inconsistent with the rights of the United States. They are not thinking of us. They are thinking first of all of their own affairs. The very uncalculated course of affairs may touch us to the quick at any time. Standing in the midst of these difficulties I want you to know I am in difficulty."

The president said he knew the people wanted him to keep the nation out of war. There was prolonged applause.

"I pledge you," he continued solemnly, "that God helping, I will keep it out of war."

He went on to say the nation wanted him to preserve the honor of the United States. The applause continued. He told how difficult it was to do both.

"This people is not going to choose war," he went on. "But we are dealing with government rather than people, and we don't know what an hour or a day will bring forth."

"We want war, if it must come, to be something that springs out of the sentiments, principles and actions of the people themselves. It is on that account that I am counselling congress not to take the advice of those who recommend that we should have a very large standing army, but, on the contrary, to see to it that the citizens of the country are so trained and that equipment is so provided for them that when they choose they can take up arms and defend themselves."

He explained he wanted congress to do a great deal for the National Guard, but that he did not see how the guard could be placed at the disposal of the federal government.

"Do not be deceived, ladies and gentlemen, as to the colors of that flag. Those lines of red are lines of blood, nobly and unselfishly shed by men who loved the liberty of their fellow-men more than they loved their own lives and fortunes."

"God forbid that we should have to use the blood of America to freshen the color of that flag; but if it should again be necessary to assert the majesty and the integrity of those ancient and honorable principles that flag will be glorified and purified again."

MINERS REJECT UNION BAN ON STATE TROOPS

Defeat Resolution to Exclude Them From Ranks.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 1.—Those in control of the national affairs of the United Mine Workers of America, won another victory in their convention, when they rallied their forces and defeated a resolution designed to exclude national guardsmen and members of state constabularies from the organization.

After the administration leaders had defeated the exclusion proposition they presented a resolution, which was adopted without opposition, petitioning the American Federation of Labor and various state federations to secure the enactment of legislation that will prevent "military forces and privately armed gunmen from acting as strike breakers."

The exclusion resolution was the feature of the sessions, which were taken up with matters pertaining to changes in the constitution of the union. Every member from President White down, who spoke on the militia question, expressed his enmity to the national guard as an organization so long as it was used in strikes.

Despite this sentiment, it was deemed best by the majority that to exclude the military from membership in the union would be in contravention of the laws of some states. Legal opinions sustaining this contention were read. It was argued that instead of criticising militiamen, they should be welcomed and assimilated and laws enacted to prevent them being used to help break strikes.

LEEVE BRACKS: 1000 FLEE

Newport, Ark., is Under Several Feet of Water.

Little Rock, Ark., Feb. 1.—The White river levee at Newport broke and flood waters now cover the town to a depth of from two to six feet.

The break had been expected and a thousand people left the city. Those who remained had moved into the second stories of their homes. More than a score of residents were taken off Arbuckle island.

Numerous streets in Pine Bluff are under water and the situation there is regarded as critical.

Fifty families are marooned beyond the Arkansas river levee at Redfield, between Little Rock and Pine Bluff, and unless they are rescued within a few hours they probably will be drowned.

ZEPPELIN KILLS TEN IN NEW RAID

American Ambassador Tells of Paris Casualties.

TWENTY OTHERS INJURED

French Reports Said No Damage Was Done—No Bombs Near United States Headquarters.

Washington, Feb. 1.—William G. Sharp, the United States ambassador to France, reported to the state department on the Zeppelin raid on Paris Sunday night.

He said none of the bombs dropped by the German air machine fell near the American embassy. Ten persons were killed and twenty injured, he reported.

Paris was raided on both Saturday and Sunday nights by Zeppelins. Unofficial reports gave the number of those killed Saturday night as thirty-four; a French official statement declared, regarding Sunday night's raid: "Latest reports show that no damage was done."

Zeppelins Put to Flight.

London, Feb. 1.—Another Zeppelin raider visited Paris Sunday night, dropping several bombs over the outskirts. It was speedily put to flight by French aeroplanes.

This raid followed one on Saturday night, which caused thirty-four deaths, fifteen women, fifteen men and four children. The wounded numbered twenty-nine, fourteen women, eleven men and four children.

It was at 9:45 o'clock Sunday night that the alarm was given of the approach of the second Zeppelin. In a few minutes the city was plunged in darkness. Being Sunday night, the boulevards were thronged with promenaders and the theatres, moving picture places and restaurants were crowded.

The toll of death from the raid of the night before had made no impression on the cool Parisians who displayed the insatiable curiosity for which they are reputed and flocked into the streets and gazed skyward in the hope of getting a glimpse of the invader, unmoved by the possible prospect of the horrible death missiles which might fall from the gloomy sky. At 11:15 o'clock P. M., the firemen's bugles announced that all danger had been passed and a number of lights, sufficient to enable persons homeward bound to find their way, were turned on.

The French official report of the invasion says the special anti-aircraft batteries were at once brought into action against the Zeppelin, and aeroplanes went in pursuit of the invader. The bombs hurled by the Zeppelin for the most part fell harmlessly into suburban fields. No damage was reported.

That the loss of life in Saturday's raid did not run into an enormous total is remarkable. One of the projectiles thrown from the dirigible wrecked part of the subway immediately after a crowded train passed. If the train had been struck, hundreds would doubtless have been killed. President Poincaré, who visited the stricken district and spent three hours giving such comfort as he could to the families of victims, was deeply touched by the scenes of desolation. He gave a large personal gift for the relief of the sufferers.

COL. HOUSE DRAWS NO PAY

Secretary Lansing Asks That Department's Secret Fund be Doubled.

Washington, Feb. 1.—Secretary of State Lansing told the house foreign affairs committee that Colonel E. M. House, who is making a tour abroad as the personal representative of President Wilson, is drawing no pay and gets only his expenses.

Secretary Lansing did not disclose the mission of Colonel House. Mr. Lansing urged the necessity of increasing the department's secret fund, for which he and President Wilson alone are responsible, from $75,000 to $150,000.

When Baby Sleeps

Bubbles of laughter and joyous shout! Harry and Tom have a wrestling bout. Turning the house all inside out, tumbling around pell-mell.

Baby gurgles and baby crows, baby bites at her chubby toes tender as roses. What baby's thinking just baby knows, and baby declines to tell.

But sooner or later, you may depend, the boomer's rough play will see its end. With boyish spirits confined and pent, to their chairs they'll softly creep. Mother's finger is on her lips; father smiles and his coffee sips.

Sister moves on her light toe tips, for baby has gone to sleep!

"Baby has gone to Bytown Land, gone to see the sights so grand! Mother croons, and her loving hand smooths a dear little baby curl. Father, watching, feels tender as love for the babe, for the wife so true. And a future joy, like a faint gleam, aches the heart of a pure young air."

Brothers, unknowing, unthinking boys, long for their games, their romps, their toys. But, dutiful still, refrain from noise, but grin in the silence deep—Happiness sought for and prized and earned, love for which youth has forever yearned.

Leaves of duty in silence learned—when baby has gone to sleep!—Griff Alexander in Pittsburgh Dispatch.

BIRDS THRIVE IN WARTIME.

Europe's Game and Song Varieties Are Now Unmolested.

Have the song birds of Europe become the victims of bullets, shrapnel and deadly gases, or have they deserted the war ridden continent entirely? Apparently they have done neither, for the war has helped instead of hurt the birds of Europe, according to T. Gilbert Pearson, secretary of the National Association of Audubon Societies and an American authority on birds.

"Our correspondents have discovered," said he, "that the wild birds are receiving an amity from the hands of men in Europe to which they have long been strangers. The French government has stopped all hunting; and the minister of war has issued an order that the sale of no native game will be tolerated. Ordinarily more than 1,000 tons of native killed game are sold annually in the markets of France, more than 2,000,000 pounds."

"Belgium in time of peace is one of the greatest bird catching countries in Europe. More than 50,000 skylarks, as well as hundreds of thousands of other birds, are annually trapped and exported from that country for food."

It War a Flea.

Smith—"Is that dog of yours smart?" Brown (proudly)—"Smart? Well, I should say so! I was going out with him yesterday, and I stopped and said: 'Towser, we have forgotten something!' And bothered if he didn't sit down and scratch his head to see if he could think what it was!"

WILSON'S TOUR TO DECIDE HIS FATE

Preparedness Speeches of Great Importance to Political Future.

POPULARITY IS AT STAKE.

Some Leaders Say That the Average
Business Man is Opposed to the President and Will Vote Against Him—Fairly Accurate Opinion Can Be Formed After His Trip.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.
Washington, Feb. 1.—[Special.]—It will be interesting to note the effect of the trips and speeches of President Wilson upon his political fortunes. Some time will elapse before any one will know whether he has created a sentiment upon the subject of preparedness which will aid his program, but there ought to be a fairly just estimate of the political standing of the president after he has completed his tours and opinions begin to be expressed concerning his chances to be re-elected.

That the president must work hard for his political popularity there seems to be little question. It has been apparent for several months that the Republicans were highly elated over their prospects, and they believe that they have a good opportunity to win the next election.

Business Element Dissatisfied?
Some who have had an opportunity to talk with business men say that notwithstanding the large volume of business which is now being transacted in the country there is a general opposition among business men to the president. Some persons go so far as to say "a lot of business men are waiting to get a crack at the president."

Navy Best Defense.

Senator Swanson of Virginia does not expect to see the program of the administration adopted as presented. For instance, he says that there will be no large increase in the military establishment. "This country does not want and won't have a large standing army," remarked the senator. "There will be little increase in the army, but it is likely that congress will go further in the matter of naval increase than the administration has asked. A powerful navy is the guarantee of safety."

"In all Europe today London is the only capital that is absolutely safe from capture by an enemy, and it is safe on account of the British navy. We can make ourselves absolutely secure by a large navy, for no country will attack us while we have a powerful navy."

Will It Be Smothered?

Two years ago the house passed a good roads bill similar to that which passed recently. The fate of that bill was never for a moment in doubt. It was smothered in the senate. Several counter propositions were presented and allowed to linger on the shelf until it was too late to do anything. It is a good guess that the same process will be worked again this year.

Jim Martine in Eruption.

Every once in awhile Jim Martine goes berserk against the Republican party and like a fierce windmill, a roaring lion or anything that makes a noise and looks threatening. Generally his text is a newspaper clipping that good times prevail throughout the country.

He gets results, too, for on one recent occasion he put up Gallinger Lippitt and Brandegee, all New England senators, who had come to the rescue of the manufacturers and the tariff in that section of the country.

He Was For Pensions.

Congressman Thomas of Kentucky created quite a lot of amusement in the house over the opposition of several southern men to pensions. First he tackled Howard of Georgia. "He is simply against pensions—all pensions," he said. "I am for all pensions. That is the difference between us."

"I am going to get all the pensions for Kentucky I can," he continued. "I would rather the money should go down into Kentucky than up among the elites in Maine. I will say to my friend Howard that he is butting his head against a stone wall."

"I'll admit it," interjected Howard. "Then why do you continue to be so foolish?" asked Thomas.

Then he included Tribble of Georgia with Howard. "This stuff of these two men from Georgia getting up here every time we have a pension bill is foolish. They hop up and raise mischief about something and do not know what they are raising it about. My advice is that they quit it."

Can Do What He Wants.

Congressman Baker of California has a grievance against Jim Mann. The minority leader had been roweling the California pretty hard, and Baker finally felt hurt. He talked about the "unkind comments" of Mann. "I realize his astuteness," went on Baker, "and I realize that he has a great body of men on the other side behind him, and he can demand anything he wants, but he often makes improper use of his power and his language."

GERMANS PLAN BIG SEA ATTACK?

Expert Says Fleet Will Soon
Make Dash For England.

TESTING MANY NEW DEVICES

President of Aeronautical Society of America Asserts That Time of Expected Drive Depends on Development of Aerial Torpedo—Zeppelins
May Carry Fokkers.

Thomas R. Macmehen, aeronautical engineer and president of the Aeronautical Society of America, says that he believes reports of a coming attack on England by a German fleet are well founded. In his opinion the attack will be carried out by a battle ship fleet armed with seventeen inch guns, far outranging the largest of the British guns, and escorted by a fleet of Fokker aeroplanes and Zeppelins armed with a new pneumatic gun capable of firing armor piercing projectiles.

Mr. Macmehen said he based his prediction on sources of authoritative information in Germany.

"To understand what is going on in the field of scientific progress," Mr. Macmehen said, "we must keep in mind the fact that the stimulus of the most terrible war and the greatest resources of genius have joined hands and in a great effort inventions are rapidly being produced which are modified and improved from month to month. Only in this way can we understand the wonderful progress that has been made in the science of aviation during the war."

Big Raid to Test New Device.

The time of the German navy's dash from the Kiel canal will be fixed mainly by the results of the testing of the new engine of destruction from the air, the pneumatic gun or torpedo tube. Mr. Macmehen asserted. He says he believes the weapon will be used shortly in a monster raid on Zeppelins on London.

"The previous raids on London have been fruitless from a military standpoint on account of the impossibility of hitting any object aimed at with bomb thrown from an altitude of more than two miles—11,000 or 12,000 feet," he said.

"For the past four years the Krupp company experts have been working on the aerial torpedo, which, according to my information, is now perfected. Briefly the torpedo tube or pneumatic gun launching the projectile is about eight feet long. Air pressure is used because of the danger of using powder for a gun of that caliber on a ship. The projectile has an initial velocity of 450 feet a second. The great velocity overcomes all the cross currents and the motion of the ship which made the bomb so useless as a missile. The projectile goes straight to its mark with an ever increasing rate of speed and strikes within a few seconds, even from a great height as 15,000 feet.

"The projectile, weighing four and half pounds, has a point as hard as sharp as a cold chisel and binds with a striking impact of fourteen tons. It will pierce armor plate and then explode inside."

Fast Fliers With Zeppelins.

Mr. Macmehen also predicted the use of the near future Zeppelins will be equipped with light one man Fokker aeroplanes slung under the carriages.

"The great trouble with the light rapid types like the Fokker is the low fuel capacity, giving them a small radius. The Fokker is the storm petrel among air craft. It can dive or tuck its wings and fly fast, but it cannot climb and fly far faster than the heavier British machine. Soon in a raiding fleet of two squares of five Zeppelins each about to Fokkers will be carried, and daylight raids on London will be made with impunity. The superior Fokkers, launched from long rods slung under the bodies of the Zeppelins, will easily dispose of the slow British air craft, while the Zeppelins will rain down destruction with their torpedo tubes.

"After lighting of the British a men the Fokkers would have enough fuel to fly back to Belgium. As a battle rarely lasts longer than twenty or twenty five minutes."

Terrific Battle Foreseen.

When the German fleet comes on as it will shortly, Mr. Macmehen says a conflict so terrific in its ferocity as to defy imagination will result. His in the air the Zeppelins will rain armor piercing torpedoes upon the British while German and British air craft contend. On the surface of the sea the two fleets, the British having the advantage in numbers of cruisers and the German with their long range guns, will strive to annihilate each other, while beneath the sea submarines will work destruction no less vigorously.

Henry Woodhouse, secretary of the Aero Club of America and a firm believer in the superiority of the aeroplane over the dirigible in time of war, said he did not think there was an chance in a million of a Zeppelin attacking London in the daytime.

MAIN WITNESSES HAVE BEEN HEARD

team, at the picnic and accompanied them to the home of his father-in-law, spending the night there so he had no further knowledge of the night's events between Sharrah and Deardoff. In the course of the cross examination Sharrah referred to the fuss about Deardoff and Mrs. Sharrah as Sharrah's old trouble, saying Sharrah spoke of it almost every time he saw him.

Charles Kane, foreman of the state highway gang in which both Deardoff and Sharrah had worked during the past summer, and James Shultz, a neighbor of the two men, were called by the defense for the purpose of showing Deardoff to have been a stronger man than Sharrah. They had no hesitancy in proclaiming Deardoff's physical prowess far in excess of Sharrah's.

Another neighbor, Fred Powell, who testified several days ago, was called again and repeated all he told her with a few additional facts thrown in. He is a friend whom Deardoff got to accompany him to the Sharrah residence on the evening of October 6, the last visit before the night of the murder. When they arrived, Powell said Deardoff called to Sharrah and Sharrah replied, "Pete, you're too late." Deardoff answered, "I'm sorry if I'm too late." Sharrah then came out on the porch and his wife stood in the doorway. He said to Deardoff, "Don't you know she is married?" Deardoff just laughed and said nothing. Sharrah remarked, "You came here one night and I told you to stay out," (at this point Mrs. Sharrah interposed, "Yes, we both told you to stay out.") "but you came in anyhow and I was standing there with a gun in my hands," "Yes," replied Deardoff, "I would have come in if Jesus Christ had been there with two guns."

Powell was with Deardoff at Cash-town on the night of the shooting. They started home together and Powell left the team at Kane's while Deardoff continued on to the Sharrah house. "On the way up the 'pike,'" Powell testified, "Deardoff said, I am going to stop at Sharrah's and give him a good hammering. To-morrow morning, I am going to give old Dave, the one, one, and on Monday I will leave. I will write to you, and he told me whom to get to read the letter, for I can't read, and you let me know how things are going here."

Powell also stated that he had seen Deardoff carrying a revolver. He was positive of having seen it once, but was not sure how many times he saw it. He was put through a strong cross examination and was on the stand at the close of the morning period.

After the noon recess Powell continued on the stand under cross examination. Efforts to break down his story met with little success. The witness, who has the appearance of a substantial mountaineer laborer, is literate and the attorney's endeavor to confuse him developed a spirit of antagonism that delayed the examination.

Constables in charge of the jury say they are beginning to get settled in their method of living and seem more contented now than they were the first few days of the trial. One of the court house officials tells a story of a telephone call from a wife of a juror who had not been away from home for this length of time since her marriage. After inquiring about her husband's health, she said, "Do they seem to be happy?"

"Happy," replied the official, "they looked like it to me the other night when I passed the hotel and saw nine young women in the lobby with them."

Almost every one knows the jurors are not allowed to see anyone, and of course, there could be no young women in the hotel, but the next day he wife called again and asked for further information about the young women. Both the office holder and the juror husband are going to have an explanation to make at the end of his trial.

Witnesses in the Mills' case have been excused until Wednesday of next week.

CONGRESS PREPARED TO VOTE UPON MANY IMPORTANT MEASURES PENDING

Leaders Think That Other Bills Will Be Made Law Ahead of Preparedness Program.

Revenue Raising Plans and Creation of Tariff Board Are Subjects That Worry Lawmakers.

PRESIDENT WILSON, having requested some of the leaders in congress to speed up and pass some of the important measures now pending, left the capital on his speaking tour confident that some of the measures will be quickly disposed of. Aside from the preparedness program, there is much important legislation awaiting consideration by the house and senate. Among these measures are the tariff, the revenue bills, a merchant marine, the question of granting independence to the Philippine Islands, prohibition and others.

Perhaps the most important of these is the tax problem. The supreme court, having upheld the validity of the income tax law, opened the way for other legislation of a similar nature, and it is most probable that this method of raising revenue will be more extensively used in the future. In discussing with Mr. Kitchen and Mr. Fitzgerald, the house leaders, the matter of government revenues, the president indicated his willingness to accept any measure, provided the revenue will be sufficient to meet the increased expenses of the government, including the preparedness program.

He told the two leaders that he would leave the details to them and permitted the inference that his recommendations for a tax on bank checks, gasoline and other articles at the beginning of the session were made more with a view of forming the basis for a suitable revenue measure than for liberal adoption.

Commenting upon the proposal to expand the income tax to its fullest development, the taxing of inheritances and a levy on munitions of war shipped abroad, the president gave the leaders the impression that he would not oppose them if they could be framed without unjust consequences to the people.

Will Stand For No "Pork."

A declaration made by the president to the leaders of congress that he would pretty much the same effect as the explosion of a bomb was that he would not stand for the "pork barrel" this session. He bluntly told Mr. Fitzgerald that he would not sign any appropriation bill carrying items for unnecessary improvements.

He therefore urged the chairman of the appropriations committee to eliminate from the annual river and harbor and public buildings bill items for new improvements, but to confine it to the continuation of those already undertaken.

An immediate effect of the president's stand was the action of the river and harbor committee in voting to confine appropriations to projects already authorized, thus limiting the total to approximately $4,000,000. Estimates for new projects aggregate nearly $125,000,000. Chairman Sparkman announced the committee would begin hearings soon on new projects for inclusion in the river and harbor bill for the December session of congress. This action is regarded as formal notice that there will be no general river and harbor bill this year.

The improvement projects eliminated totaled $122,935,987, for which an initial appropriation of $27,622,389 had been asked. Among the proposals cut out were: New York-Delaware bay canal, $20,000,000; New York harbor, upper bay and East river and Hell Gate, $14,230,000; Jamaica bay, $1,275,000; dam at the foot of Lake Erie, New York, $3,500,000; Connecticut river, Connecticut and Massachusetts, $1,870,000.

Favors a Tariff Board.

Decision of the president and Democratic leaders in the house and senate to press for legislation for a tariff commission has excited no end of talk about the capital.

The expectation is that a tariff commission bill will be passed, and the present outlook is that the president will have named such a commission, and it will have been organized by the time the pre-election campaign is under way.

He sent to Mr. Kitchen a letter explaining his reasons for having changed his mind regarding the question of creating a tariff board, which said in part:

"I have changed my mind because all the circumstances of the world have changed, and it seems to me that in view of the extraordinary and far-reaching changes which the European war has brought about it is absolutely necessary that we should have a competent instrument of inquiry along the whole line of the many questions which affect our foreign commerce."

"I have had in this change of mind no thought whatever of a change of attitude toward the so called protection question. That is neither here nor there. A commission such as I have suggested would have nothing to do with theories of policy. They would deal only with facts, and the facts which they would seek ought to be the actual facts of industry and of the conditions of economic exchange prevailing in the world, so that legislation of every kind that touched these mat-

Need of Studying Tariff.

"I dare say you feel as I do, that it would be folly at this time, or until all the altered conditions are clearly understood, to attempt to deal with questions of foreign commerce by legislation, and yet, having dealt directly and clearly with the whole question of unfair competition within our own borders, it is clear that as soon as we know the facts we ought to deal with unfair methods of competition as between our own nation and others, and this is only one of the many things that we would probably wish to deal with. The other matters I have attempted to indicate in my previous letter to you. I am glad to supplement that letter by this explicit statement of the considerations which have been most influential with me."

The Philippine Measure.

Following several recent conferences with President Wilson on the tion to be introduced also embraces the naval auxiliaries, but these vessels may be leased or sold to private parties as merchant steamers. The freight, rather than passenger, business is sought under the new plan, and it is not contemplated that the vessels shall be adapted to passenger service to any important degree.

The bill is framed so that the government from the outset may lease its naval auxiliary vessels, or it may operate them if it is found impossible to negotiate leases. Vessels leased are to be turned over to private agencies with the express understanding that the ships may be put into the naval service at any time they may be needed.

It is understood that the bill does not propose in any sense to embark the government upon a policy of perpetual ownership and operation of steamship lines, and the naval auxiliary feature will go far toward meeting the objection of Democrats who refused to vote with the administration last session. Mr. Kitchen said his understanding was that the present bill would permit the leasing of government ships at any time, both during and after the European war.

As the bill is now drawn it does not embody this specific language, but the vessels will be primarily for the use of the navy as auxiliaries, and their participation in the merchant trade may be terminated at any time.

The bill retains the provisions for the issuance of bonds to purchase or build the requisite number of vessels. The bond issue, it is said, is $50,000,000. In other respects the new bill is not radically dissimilar from the old.

The prohibition resolution which may be voted on provides for submission of an amendment to the constitution to the states. If ratified it would automatically prohibit the manufacsubject, Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, chairman of the senate committee on the Philippines, has offered an amendment to the Philippine bill providing that not more than four years nor less than two years after the meeting of the Philippine legislature to be created by the pending measure the president should withdraw the sovereignty of the United States and proclaim the independence of the Philippine people, provided he should find that proper steps had been taken to secure by peaceful means an independent Philippine government.

Mr. Hitchcock's amendment differs only in details from the amendment presented by Mr. Clarke of Arkansas, president pro tempore of the senate. Mr. Clarke's measure fixed a period of from two to four years after the enactment of the pending bill before independence should come.

Both the Clarke and the Hitchcock measures permit the president to retain control of the islands throughout one session of congress following the end of the fourth year if conditions either in the islands or in the United States justify it.

Ship Bill Has Good Chance.

Many believe there is every prospect of the early adoption of a government ship purchase bill. Representative Kitchen has tentatively agreed to support the new bill. Mr. Kitchen, in company with Senator Clarke of Arkansas, another opponent of the bill which failed in the last congress, conferred at length with the president, and a virtual agreement was reached that the bill, minus the permanent government ownership feature, would be put before the senate and house as soon as possible. The bill, according to present plans, will come ahead of the preparedness program.

The new bill, it is understood, follows the former measure with the exception of the concession regarding the permanent government ownership of the proposed shipping line. The bill ture and sale of all liquors in the United States.

May Ratify Treaties.

The determination to force action, as a part of the administration's pan American policy, on the treaties with Colombia and Nicaragua, held up for more than two years, is having effect.

Some senators predicted that both treaties would be recommended for ratification by the committee, but both Democrats and Republicans have doubts regarding their reception in the senate. Opposition to the Colombian treaty, which proposes to pay Colombia $25,000,000 for the separation of Panama, with an expression of regret that anything should have happened to mar the relations of the two countries, is based on various grounds. Many senators believe that $25,000,000 is an excessive amount, insisting that half the sum or even less would be equitable. Others are insistent that no language should be used which might be construed as an apology by the United States for its acquiescence of the canal zone property.

There has been even stronger opposition to the Nicaraguan treaty. This proposes to pay $5,000,000 for an option on the Nicaraguan canal route and for a naval base in Fonseca bay. One of the complicating features is an objection from two other Central American republics—Salvador and Honduras. These nations also own portions of the shore of Fonseca bay and insist that Nicaragua has no right to permit the United States to establish a naval base there without their consent.

The senate committee on foreign relations, it is said, will try to find relief for the lack of dyestuffs in the United States by some modification of a treaty. It is understood that the plan looks to a provision by which log wood dyes, which heretofore have come mostly from the British possessions, may come to the United States from Haiti.

SEARCH FAILS TO FIND K-5

Fears Are Felt For Safety of Under-Sea Craft.

RADIO OF LITTLE AID

Vessels' Wireless Only Had a Radius of Twenty-five Miles—Missing Two Days.

Washington, Feb. 1.—With wire's calls flashed in all directions remaining unanswered and torpedo boat destroyers, coast guard cutters, a buoy tender and many other craft reporting no trace of the little undersea boat, fears for the safety of the submarine K-5, missing since early Sunday morning, increased as the hours passed.

In some quarters it was believed that the vessel either was proceeding as ordered to Key West or had developed some trouble with its engines which caused its separation from its sister ships, but navy department officials were disturbed considerably.

Every effort was made, however, to locate the K-5 and definitely establish its safety. Captain Gryan, commandant of the navy yard at Charleston, S. C., the nearest station to the point where the vessel was last seen, was ordered to direct a thorough search. Secretary Daniels and ranking officers, however, were confident the little vessel had not come to harm. They base their confidence on the following reasons:

The vessel was in command of Lieutenant R. C. Grady, who also was in charge of the division, including the K-1, K-2 and K-6. His sailing orders directed him to take the division from New York to the southern drill grounds off Key West, not stopping at any port on route.

The fact that the three sister ships of the K-5 and the convoy Tallahassee put in at Charleston was due to troublesome weather and dense fog and could have been accomplished without knowledge of Lieutenant Grady, and while he was continuing south.

The K-5's wireless sending radius recently was reduced to approximately twenty-five miles, and would be limited to ten or fifteen miles by unfavorable weather conditions. In case the vessel were separated by a greater distance than its wireless covered, it would be unable to report its location.

It was thought the K-5 might have developed engine trouble, or its wireless had become deranged. In either instance, however, was either of these possibilities viewed as endangering the vessel itself.

The four K boats have just completed an overhauling of their engines in the New York navy yard and were believed by officials to have been more than equal to the cruise to Key West. At no time since the "K" class boats were commissioned in 1914, has any of them developed any serious engine trouble.

WON'T CLEAR ARMED SHIPS

U. S. Insists Entente Must Agree to Disarm Passenger Vessels.

Washington, Feb. 1.—The United States will insist that the entente powers agree to disarm their merchant vessels, or they will be denied clearing from American ports.

This is the attitude that the state department has decided to take, despite unofficial announcements from London and Paris that the British and French governments intend standing on the hitherto accepted rule that merchant vessels have a right to carry guns for defense.

As soon as the official text of this decision is received Secretary of State Lansing will renew the original proposition. He will make it plain that the entire question of compelling submarines to observe the requirements of stoppage and search of merchant vessels before sinking them hinges on whether the entente governments have directed merchant vessels to carry guns to resist attacks by submarines.

GIRL LEAPS TO DEATH FROM DECK OF BOAT

Man Who Accompanied Her is Under Arrest.

Salisbury, Md., Feb. 1.—The body of Pretty Miss Mary Spide, of Pocomoke City, Md., who leaped from the upper deck of the steamboat Virginia while on her way from Baltimore to this city, has not been found.

The water in the vicinity of Hooper straits, where the young woman jumped, has been dragged by cystemen.

William Brewington, who is in jail in this city, refused to discuss the matter, and evaded all questions that tend to an answer of his alleged relationship to the girl.

Captain Edward Johnson, of the Virginia, said that Brewington and Miss Spide boarded his steamboat at Pocomoke. He did not take any notice of the couple until he heard an argument on the lower deck, and heard Brewington say he was going to abandon Miss Spide upon his arrival at Salisbury, and after expressions were exchanged between the two Miss Spide said that "she intended to commit suicide and take her troubles overboard into the bay."

A few minutes later Miss Spide came from her room, dressed in her traveling suit and furs, and before the stewardess could catch her she stepped upon one of the rail seats and leaped overboard, head first.

The steamboat was stopped and boats lowered, but the young woman never appeared on the surface. Brewington about that time came running up on deck and wanted to duplicate the young woman's act. The captain knowing Brewington had a wife and five children, immediately arrested him.

Collapsible Washtubs That Fold Into Small Space.

In order to conserve the valuable space consumed in the storage of the washtrubs when not in use an inventor has hit upon the plan of building them on the collapsible plan. Accordingly when these tubs are in actual service they will hold as much water as the ordinary tub, whereas during the other six days of the week they cannot by any means be accused of taking up little space. They are made of heavy metal in three sections, one fitting within the other, and when in the extended position, as shown, they are held rigid by means of three locking bars.

Grapefruit Marmalade.

Cook four grapefruit and six oranges separately in water to cover until soft enough to be pierced easily with a fork. Let them remain in this water overnight. Then cut the grapefruit into halves, remove the pulp and press through a colander to remove seeds and cores. Cut the rind very fine and put it with the pulp. Slice the oranges and put with the grapefruit, taking care to save all the juice of both fruits. To this add two quarts of water. Now measure and add one and a half times the quantity of sugar and put it into the juice and pulp hot after the former has reached the boiling point. Add the juice of six lemons and cook slowly until it is like a syrup. Pour into jars, but do not seal until the next day when it has become perfectly cool. Country Gentleman.

Spareribs Stuffed With Apples.—Get two strips of spareribs the same size. Salt and pepper to taste. Cut enough sour apples in quarters (wash, but do not peel to fill spareribs. Sew up both sides so apples can't fall out. Put in roasting pan and add two sliced onions, two bay leaves and eight whole allspice. Add water same as for other roasts and bake until done. Thicken gravy with a little flour. Gravy and meat are fine, the apples flavoring both.

Collapsible Washtubs That Fold Into Small Space.

In order to conserve the valuable space consumed in the storage of the washtubs when not in use an inventor has hit upon the plan of building them on the collapsible plan. Accordingly when these tubs are in actual service they will hold as much water as the ordinary tub, whereas during the other six days of the week they cannot by any means be accused of taking up little space. They are made of heavy metal in three sections, one fitting within the other, and when in the extended position, as shown, they are held rigid by means of three locking bars.

Grapefruit Marmalade.

Cook four grapefruit and six oranges separately in water to cover until soft enough to be pierced easily with a fork. Let them remain in this water overnight. Then cut the grapefruit into halves, remove the pulp and press through a colander to remove seeds and cores. Cut the rind very fine and put it with the pulp. Slice the oranges and put with the grapefruit, taking care to save all the juice of both fruits. To this add two quarts of water. Now measure and add one and a half times the quantity of sugar and put it into the juice and pulp hot after the former has reached the boiling point. Add the juice of six lemons and cook slowly until it is like a sirup. Pour into jars, but do not seal until the next day when it has become perfectly cool.—Country Gentleman.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

FOR WINTER DINNERS.

POT ROAST AND SPAGHETTI—

To four pounds or a little less of pot roast (beef) add one can tomatoes or two pounds fresh ones, one small can red peppers, three medium sized onions, two level tablespoonfuls sugar, one tablespoonful pepper, two tablespoonfuls salt and a stick of celery, or a little celery salt, omitting some of the common salt. Bake in oven about three hours; when done add two well cooked cupfuls of spaghetti, measured before cooking.

Veal and Asparagus.—Pour a cream sauce made of a cupful of cream or milk thickened with a tablespoonful of butter and flour, around a roast of veal and edge with asparagus tips, canned.

Oysters and Bacon.—For this dish choose very small oysters and allow eight to a person. Make strips of toast and keep hot in the oven; cook quickly in a very hot frying pan some strips of delicate thin bacon without rind, and when brown lay one on each strip of toast; put the oysters in the frying pan with the bacon fat which remains in it and cook until plump; lay on the strips of toast; garnish with slices of lemon and parsley.

Spareribs Stuffed With Apples.—Cut two strips of spareribs the same size. Salt and pepper to taste. Cut enough sour apples in quarters wash, but do not peel to fill spareribs. Sew up both sides so apples can't fall out. Put in roasting pan and add two sliced onions, two bay leaves and eight whole allspice. Add water same as for other roasts and bake until done. Thicken gravy with a little flour. Gravy and meat are fine, the apples flavoring both.

Rump Steak, Stuffed.—Two pounds rump steak, two ounces of suet, three ounces of breadcrumbs, six olives, one dessertspoonful of chopped parsley, pepper and salt, two eggs. Peel and chop the olives small; chop the suet, put into a basin with the crumbs, parsley, olives, suet, pepper and salt; mix well with the eggs; spread the mixture on the steak, roll and tie securely, place in a greased paper and roast about three-quarters of an hour.

Rebent Typewritten Letter.

A catalogue of farming implements sent out by a manufacturer finally found its way to a remote village, where it was evidently welcomed with interest. The firm received a carefully written, if somewhat clumsily expressed, letter, asking further particulars about one of the articles advertised. To this, in the usual course of business, was sent a typewritten answer. Almost by return of post came a reply: "You need not print your letter to me, I can read writing."

It would be strange if the groceryman were not quick to sense the influence of newspaper advertising. He knows customers begin calling for certain brands by name when these brands are newspaper advertised. What is more natural than that he should push these particular articles?

JOHNNY'S VALENTINE

By ETHEL HOLMES

Johnny Walsh was a very modest little boy, so modest that when the house across the way and a short distance down the street was occupied by a new family, including a golden haired, blue eyed girl, with pink cheeks and vermilion lips, Johnny's breath was quite taken away by her childish beauty.

Johnny treasured in his heart a delicious something for the girl opposite that he would reveal to no one, least of all to the object of his adoration. So fearful was he that she would suspect it that, when he saw her coming on the street, he would either look down at his toes or up at the sky, but never at her.

The approach of St. Valentine's day was a great relief to Johnny. He could send his little love a valentine expressing his feelings for her without her knowing that he did so. The only obstacle in the way was that he did not know her name and did not dare ask any one who might know for fear of betraying his secret. He was on intimate terms with the grocer's delivery boy, whom he had noticed delivering supplies to both his and her home, and asked him for the name of the family in which his sweetheart belonged. Through Jim he learned the girl's name was Julia Reynolds.

Johnny now had it all his own way. The next thing for him to do was to buy a valentine. He found it difficult to find one to suit him, but at last succeeded, carried it to his room and, locking the door, proceeded to address it to Miss Julia Reynolds of 357 Harrison street, spelling Harrison H-a-r-r-i-s-o-n.

A terrible thing happened while Johnny was taking the valentine to the letter box. Just as he was about to drop the missive in the box who should come along but the very girl to whom it was addressed! John blushed scarlet and instead of putting the valentine in the box put it in his pocket and walked away, looking up at the sky. It was not till the evening, when darkness covered his romance, that Johnny mailed his valentine in a box a mile from his home.

Whether among the dozen valentines John received there was one from the girl he loved best he did not know. Soon after St. Valentine's day, meeting Julia coming from school, he mustered courage to glance at her and thought he saw a suspicion of a smile on her pretty lips. But he dared not keep his eyes on her long enough to make sure. This was the last time he saw her as a child, for soon after the meeting he saw a doctor's vehicle before the Reynolds door and later heard that his little love was ill.

John's anxiety overcame his bashfulness. He gathered his loose change, amounting to 50 cents, and bought a post. Then he persuaded a small boy he picked up near the Reynolds house to take it to the door, ring the bell and hand it in, saying that it was for Julia. John stood behind a tree box till the feat was accomplished, then walked away, proud of what he had achieved.

A dozen years passed. John Walsh's remembrance of his little love was a very pleasant one, and often he laughed at his terror lest either the girl or any one else should discover his secret devotion. Being now a man he took no interest in St. Valentine's day, but whenever it came round, though he had forgotten the missive he had sent Julia Reynolds, a pleasant sensation seemed to haunt him. As to Julia, he did not know whether she was still living. Her image remained with him, but as if seen in a mirror that had become clouded. Though his childish love was a thing of the past, neither it nor its object was forgotten.

When John was twenty-two years old he met at an evening function a young lady, with whom he was from the first in rapport. They fell to comparing notes and learned that they had once lived in the same city and in the same neighborhood.

John had been introduced to the young lady as Miss Reynolds, and it occurred to him that this might be his child love. He asked her if her name was Julia, and when she said yes he was sure that she was the girl to whom he had sent the valentine and the post when she was ill. He had overcome his boyish bashfulness and was happy to know that he had worshipped her from a distance and had sent her a valentine and flowers. Miss Reynolds listened to this with evident pleasure, but gave no sign of remembering any such boy as John Walsh. John, whose assurance was now equal to his former modesty, swore that he had never forgotten his boyish love and intimated that he would gladly pursue it as a man. Whether the young lady attributed this to gallantry or not she did not say.

Certain it is that there followed a courtship between the two. In its stages John prided himself on his constancy and feigned to regret that his former devotion had not been appreciated. Miss Reynolds made no reply to these protestations till he had proposed and had been accepted. Then she produced a valentine and a flower both yellow with age, and in the former there came back to John a dim remembrance of the missive that had cost him so much pain. Julia told him that the flower was one of those he had sent her when she was ill. She had known of his admiration for the first time he had passed her, for he had shown it plainly by his effort to appear unconscious of it.

Good Enough.

"Is that a good fountain pen of yours?" "The best ever. It never leaks—except, of course, when I'm wearing a white vest."

Farm and Garden

THE FARM WOOD LOT.

Forest Culture is an Art the Farmer Should Cultivate.

Forest culture is as much of an art as is corn culture. A good wood lot, like a good cornfield, is the result of applying intelligent methods to produce a full, valuable crop. A cornfield with fall spots, empty hills, feeble stalks and half filled ears is neither a credit to the farmer nor a paying investment for the farmer. No more is a wood lot half stocked with inferior trees. When timber is cut is the time of all times to apply forestry. The way in which the cutting is done will determine what the subsequent condition of the wood lot will be.

There is a difference between farm woodland and the farm wood lot. Farm woodland is farm land which has not yet been cleared. Farm wood lot is a term which might best be used to mean a part of a farm permanently devoted to timber production, under a sound plan of farm management. The size and the location of the wood lot will depend upon various considerations, of which the most important are the home needs of the farm, the character of the land and the present and prospective market for materials from the wood lot.

SIMPLE WAY TO TEST SOILS.

Many Farmers Waste Years Trying to Farm Sour Lands.

Buy a few cents' worth of hydrochloric acid, also litmus paper at the drugist's. Then test the various soils on your farm. With a spade or large augur take a soil sample to a depth of seven inches, mixing it well, writes L. C. Lelt in the Orange Judd Farmer.

Now, with a handful of this moist sample make a saucer shaped form. Pour in a little of the acid, being careful not to drop any on your hands or clothes, as it burns. If the result is quite free bubbling or effervescence it shows that the soil contains considerable limestone, but little or no foaming indicates deficiency of lime. Make this test with soil known to be rich in lime or with a sample to which you have added lime, then with soil poor in lime and you will see the difference distinctly. Now, make a ball of moist earth from another handful of the same sample of soil, break it in two, lay on one part a bit of the blue litmus paper, leave for a few moments, then open the ball again. If the blue paper has turned red the soil is sour or acid and probably quite deficient in lime. If it keeps red after drying the soil is very sour. If the blue paper does not change color then test the soil moisture with red litmus paper. If it turns blue the soil is alkali and not sour.

No amount of reading or talking will teach you half as much as for you to make these tests yourself. Many farmers waste years trying to farm sour land or that poor in lime, whereas by testing it in this easy way they can see at once what it needs.

POULTRY IN WINTER.

Look out for sudden severe spells. See that the henhouse is closed tight when a norther shows its nose.

One cold night is sufficient to freeze the combs of all your fowls and spoil them for the show at which you intended to exhibit them.

It avails nothing to bewail the fact that the poultry house doors were not closed the night of the storm after the damage has been done. Shutting the doors before the storm comes is what counts.

Success in poultry culture is simply the result of looking after all the little details connected with the business. Any one can be successful if he will use a little diligence and common sense.

A hot mash on a cold winter morning is a good thing to give the chickens. Still, it is not wise to give them all they will eat of the mash, for if you do they will be apt to sit around after they are filled and become chilled with inactivity. On the contrary, give them about half a feed of mash and scatter small grain in the litter, so that they may be kept warm by scratching for the seeds. This will keep them active and healthy and consequently profitable.

Usually on the 30.

TO THE STOCKHOLDERS OF THE MILLER TRAIN CONTROL CORPORATION

The efficiency and practicability of the Miller Train Control is now assured, as proven by its use on the main line of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railroad.

Its daily use for nearly three years on the main line of this railroad, attaining 100 per cent efficiency in performing the functions claimed for it, under all kinds of climatic conditions, IS THE BEST EVIDENCE OF ITS MERIT.

The Managements of a number of Railroads are seriously considering the question of the adoption of a train control and as the Miller Train Control is in actual service on a standard railroad, when it is put in use on other roads, the market value of its securities should be considerably above par.

We will be pleased to furnish you information on request.
